

Rumpelstiltskin

A Reader's
Theatre Script
by Angela Nerby

Rumpelstiltskin

Characters:

Narrator

Miller's Daughter

Rumpelstiltskin

King

Narrator Once there was a miller. A miller is a person who uses a mill to grind grains into flour. In an effort to look better than the king, the miller lied to the king and said his daughter could use a spinning wheel to spin straw into gold.

King Is that so? Then I demand that you bring her to me!

Narrator So the miller's daughter was sent to meet the king at the castle. The king took the girl to the tower room. The room was filled with straw and had a spinning wheel in the corner.

King Your father says you can spin straw into gold, but I don't believe it. You must turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!

Narrator With that, the king left and locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.

Daughter Oh no! What am I going to do? I don't know how to spin straw into gold!

Narrator The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, an impish creature appeared in the room.

Rumpelstiltskin I can help you spin straw into gold, but it's going to cost you.

Daughter I don't have any money, but I can give you my necklace in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?

Rumpelstiltskin It's a deal!

Narrator The creature spun all of the straw into gold and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter

King Oh my goodness, it's true! You can spin straw into gold! I need more of it!

Narrator The king took the miller's daughter to a larger room filled with straw.

Rumpelstiltskin

King I demand that you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!

Narrator The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.

Daughter Oh no! Last night, that creature helped me. What am I going to do now?

Narrator The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, the creature from the night before reappeared.

Daughter You're back! Can you please help me?

Rumpelstiltskin I can... But it's going to cost you.

Daughter I don't have any money, but I can give you my ring in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?

Rumpelstiltskin It's a deal!

Narrator The creature spun all of the straw into gold once again and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter

King This is amazing!

Narrator The king then took the miller's daughter to an even larger room filled with straw.

King I am rich beyond belief. If you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, I will marry you.

Narrator The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.

Daughter Oh no! The last two nights, that creature helped me, but now I have nothing to give him. What am I going to do?

Narrator Just like the previous nights, the creature appeared after the sun went down. He sat down at the spinning wheel and began to spin the straw into gold without saying a word.

Daughter Wait! I have nothing to give you in exchange for your work!

Narrator But the creature didn't hear her and kept working.

Rumpelstiltskin I'm done! Give me your payment and I'll be gone.

Rumpelstiltskin

Daughter But I have nothing to give you.

Rumpelstiltskin What?! Fine. In exchange for my hard work, the price will be your first child.

Daughter What?! NO!

Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter.

King I can't believe my eyes! Will you marry me and be my queen? We will be the richest people in all the land!

Narrator The girl agreed and the two were married. Several years later, the king and queen had their first baby. Late one night, the creature appeared in her room.

Rumpelstiltskin Hello, Queen. I'm back to collect what you owe me.

Daughter/
Queen No, please! You can't have my baby! Let me give you all of my riches instead!

Rumpelstiltskin I'll tell you what. You can keep your baby if you can guess my name. You have three days to figure it out.

Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. Scared, sad, and not knowing what to do, the Queen went for a walk in the woods to clear her head. As she walked, she found a small cottage. There was the creature, singing and dancing around a campfire.

Rumpelstiltskin Tonight tonight, my plans I make. Tomorrow, tomorrow the baby I take. The queen will never win the game, for Rumpelstiltskin is my name!

Narrator On the night of the third day, the creature came back.

Rumpelstiltskin Well, Queen? Unless you tell me my name, you will never see your baby again!

Daughter/
Queen Ummm.... Is it Rumpelstiltskin?

Rumpelstiltskin What? NO!! How did you know my name? Ahhh!!

Narrator Rumpelstiltskin got so angry he stomped his foot on the ground. He hit the ground so hard, a large crack opened up. Rumpelstiltskin fell into it and was never seen again.

Rumpelstiltskin

Characters:

Narrator

Miller's Daughter

Rumpelstiltskin

King

- Narrator Once there was a miller. A miller is a person who uses a mill to grind grains into flour. In an effort to look better than the king, the miller lied to the king and said his daughter could use a spinning wheel to spin straw into gold.
- King Is that so? Then I demand that you bring her to me!
- Narrator So the miller's daughter was sent to meet the king at the castle. The king took the girl to the tower room. The room was filled with straw and had a spinning wheel in the corner.
- King Your father says you can spin straw into gold, but I don't believe it. You must turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!
- Narrator With that, the king left and locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
- Daughter Oh no! What am I going to do? I don't know how to spin straw into gold!
- Narrator The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, an impish creature appeared in the room.
- Rumpelstiltskin I can help you spin straw into gold, but it's going to cost you.
- Daughter I don't have any money, but I can give you my necklace in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?
- Rumpelstiltskin It's a deal!
- Narrator The creature spun all of the straw into gold and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter
- King Oh my goodness, it's true! You can spin straw into gold! I need more of it!
- Narrator The king took the miller's daughter to a larger room filled with straw.

Rumpelstiltskin

- King I demand that you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!
- Narrator The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
- Daughter Oh no! Last night, that creature helped me. What am I going to do now?
- Narrator The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, the creature from the night before reappeared.
- Daughter You're back! Can you please help me?
- Rumpelstiltskin I can... But it's going to cost you.
- Daughter I don't have any money, but I can give you my ring in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?
- Rumpelstiltskin It's a deal!
- Narrator The creature spun all of the straw into gold once again and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter
- King This is amazing!
- Narrator The king then took the miller's daughter to an even larger room filled with straw.
- King I am rich beyond belief. If you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, I will marry you.
- Narrator The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
- Daughter Oh no! The last two nights, that creature helped me, but now I have nothing to give him. What am I going to do?
- Narrator Just like the previous nights, the creature appeared after the sun went down. He sat down at the spinning wheel and began to spin the straw into gold without saying a word.
- Daughter Wait! I have nothing to give you in exchange for your work!
- Narrator But the creature didn't hear her and kept working.
- Rumpelstiltskin I'm done! Give me your payment and I'll be gone.

Rumpelstiltskin

Daughter But I have nothing to give you.

Rumpelstiltskin What?! Fine. In exchange for my hard work, the price will be your first child.

Daughter What?! NO!

Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter.

King I can't believe my eyes! Will you marry me and be my queen? We will be the richest people in all the land!

Narrator The girl agreed and the two were married. Several years later, the king and queen had their first baby. Late one night, the creature appeared in her room.

Rumpelstiltskin Hello, Queen. I'm back to collect what you owe me.

Daughter/
Queen No, please! You can't have my baby! Let me give you all of my riches instead!

Rumpelstiltskin I'll tell you what. You can keep your baby if you can guess my name. You have three days to figure it out.

Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. Scared, sad, and not knowing what to do, the Queen went for a walk in the woods to clear her head. As she walked, she found a small cottage. There was the creature, singing and dancing around a campfire.

Rumpelstiltskin Tonight tonight, my plans I make. Tomorrow, tomorrow the baby I take. The queen will never win the game, for Rumpelstiltskin is my name!

Narrator On the night of the third day, the creature came back.

Rumpelstiltskin Well, Queen? Unless you tell me my name, you will never see your baby again!

Daughter/
Queen Ummm.... Is it Rumpelstiltskin?

Rumpelstiltskin What? NO!! How did you know my name? Ahhh!!

Narrator Rumpelstiltskin got so angry he stomped his foot on the ground. He hit the ground so hard, a large crack opened up. Rumpelstiltskin fell into it and was never seen again.

Rumpelstiltskin

Characters:

Narrator

Miller's Daughter

Rumpelstiltskin

King

- Narrator      Once there was a miller. A miller is a person who uses a mill to grind grains into flour. In an effort to look better than the king, the miller lied to the king and said his daughter could use a spinning wheel to spin straw into gold.
- King            Is that so? Then I demand that you bring her to me!
- Narrator      So the miller's daughter was sent to meet the king at the castle. The king took the girl to the tower room. The room was filled with straw and had a spinning wheel in the corner.
- King            Your father says you can spin straw into gold, but I don't believe it. You must turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!
- Narrator      With that, the king left and locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
- Daughter      Oh no! What am I going to do? I don't know how to spin straw into gold!
- Narrator      The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, an impish creature appeared in the room.
- Rumpelstiltskin      I can help you spin straw into gold, but it's going to cost you.
- Daughter      I don't have any money, but I can give you my necklace in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?
- Rumpelstiltskin      It's a deal!
- Narrator      The creature spun all of the straw into gold and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter
- King            Oh my goodness, it's true! You can spin straw into gold! I need more of it!
- Narrator      The king took the miller's daughter to a larger room filled with straw.

Rumpelstiltskin

- King I demand that you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!
- Narrator The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
- Daughter Oh no! Last night, that creature helped me. What am I going to do now?
- Narrator The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, the creature from the night before reappeared.
- Daughter You're back! Can you please help me?
- Rumpelstiltskin I can... But it's going to cost you.
- Daughter I don't have any money, but I can give you my ring in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?
- Rumpelstiltskin It's a deal!
- Narrator The creature spun all of the straw into gold once again and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter
- King This is amazing!
- Narrator The king then took the miller's daughter to an even larger room filled with straw.
- King I am rich beyond belief. If you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, I will marry you.
- Narrator The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
- Daughter Oh no! The last two nights, that creature helped me, but now I have nothing to give him. What am I going to do?
- Narrator Just like the previous nights, the creature appeared after the sun went down. He sat down at the spinning wheel and began to spin the straw into gold without saying a word.
- Daughter Wait! I have nothing to give you in exchange for your work!
- Narrator But the creature didn't hear her and kept working.
- Rumpelstiltskin I'm done! Give me your payment and I'll be gone.

Rumpelstiltskin

Daughter But I have nothing to give you.

Rumpelstiltskin What?! Fine. In exchange for my hard work, the price will be your first child.

Daughter What?! NO!

Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter.

King I can't believe my eyes! Will you marry me and be my queen? We will be the richest people in all the land!

Narrator The girl agreed and the two were married. Several years later, the king and queen had their first baby. Late one night, the creature appeared in her room.

Rumpelstiltskin Hello, Queen. I'm back to collect what you owe me.

Daughter/
Queen No, please! You can't have my baby! Let me give you all of my riches instead!

Rumpelstiltskin I'll tell you what. You can keep your baby if you can guess my name. You have three days to figure it out.

Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. Scared, sad, and not knowing what to do, the Queen went for a walk in the woods to clear her head. As she walked, she found a small cottage. There was the creature, singing and dancing around a campfire.

Rumpelstiltskin Tonight tonight, my plans I make. Tomorrow, tomorrow the baby I take. The queen will never win the game, for Rumpelstiltskin is my name!

Narrator On the night of the third day, the creature came back.

Rumpelstiltskin Well, Queen? Unless you tell me my name, you will never see your baby again!

Daughter/
Queen Ummm.... Is it Rumpelstiltskin?

Rumpelstiltskin What? NO!! How did you know my name? Ahhh!!

Narrator Rumpelstiltskin got so angry he stomped his foot on the ground. He hit the ground so hard, a large crack opened up. Rumpelstiltskin fell into it and was never seen again.

Rumpelstiltskin

Characters:

Narrator

Miller's Daughter

Rumpelstiltskin

King

Narrator Once there was a miller. A miller is a person who uses a mill to grind grains into flour. In an effort to look better than the king, the miller lied to the king and said his daughter could use a spinning wheel to spin straw into gold.

King Is that so? Then I demand that you bring her to me!

Narrator So the miller's daughter was sent to meet the king at the castle. The king took the girl to the tower room. The room was filled with straw and had a spinning wheel in the corner.

King Your father says you can spin straw into gold, but I don't believe it. You must turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!

Narrator With that, the king left and locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.

Daughter Oh no! What am I going to do? I don't know how to spin straw into gold!

Narrator The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, an impish creature appeared in the room.

Rumpelstiltskin I can help you spin straw into gold, but it's going to cost you.

Daughter I don't have any money, but I can give you my necklace in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?

Rumpelstiltskin It's a deal!

Narrator The creature spun all of the straw into gold and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter

King Oh my goodness, it's true! You can spin straw into gold! I need more of it!

Narrator The king took the miller's daughter to a larger room filled with straw.

Rumpelstiltskin

King	I demand that you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, or else you will be sent to the dungeon!
Narrator	The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
Daughter	Oh no! Last night, that creature helped me. What am I going to do now?
Narrator	The minutes turned into hours, and soon the sun went down. The miller's daughter was starting to give up all hope. Suddenly, the creature from the night before reappeared.
Daughter	You're back! Can you please help me?
Rumpelstiltskin	I can... But it's going to cost you.
Daughter	I don't have any money, but I can give you my ring in exchange for you spinning this straw into gold?
Rumpelstiltskin	It's a deal!
Narrator	The creature spun all of the straw into gold once again and then disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter

King	This is amazing!
Narrator	The king then took the miller's daughter to an even larger room filled with straw.

King	I am rich beyond belief. If you turn all of this straw into gold by tomorrow morning, I will marry you.
Narrator	The king locked the girl in the room, alone with the straw and a spinning wheel.
Daughter	Oh no! The last two nights, that creature helped me, but now I have nothing to give him. What am I going to do?
Narrator	Just like the previous nights, the creature appeared after the sun went down. He sat down at the spinning wheel and began to spin the straw into gold without saying a word.
Daughter	Wait! I have nothing to give you in exchange for your work!
Narrator	But the creature didn't hear her and kept working.
Rumpelstiltskin	I'm done! Give me your payment and I'll be gone.

Rumpelstiltskin

- Daughter But I have nothing to give you.
- Rumpelstiltskin What?! Fine. In exchange for my hard work, the price will be your first child.
- Daughter What?! NO!
- Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. The next morning, the king came to check on the miller's daughter.
- King I can't believe my eyes! Will you marry me and be my queen? We will be the richest people in all the land!
- Narrator The girl agreed and the two were married. Several years later, the king and queen had their first baby. Late one night, the creature appeared in her room.
- Rumpelstiltskin Hello, Queen. I'm back to collect what you owe me.
- Daughter/
Queen No, please! You can't have my baby! Let me give you all of my riches instead!
- Rumpelstiltskin I'll tell you what. You can keep your baby if you can guess my name. You have three days to figure it out.
- Narrator And with that, the creature disappeared. Scared, sad, and not knowing what to do, the Queen went for a walk in the woods to clear her head. As she walked, she found a small cottage. There was the creature, singing and dancing around a campfire.
- Rumpelstiltskin Tonight tonight, my plans I make. Tomorrow, tomorrow the baby I take. The queen will never win the game, for Rumpelstiltskin is my name!
- Narrator On the night of the third day, the creature came back.
- Rumpelstiltskin Well, Queen? Unless you tell me my name, you will never see your baby again!
- Daughter/
Queen Ummm.... Is it Rumpelstiltskin?
- Rumpelstiltskin What? NO!! How did you know my name? Ahhh!!
- Narrator Rumpelstiltskin got so angry he stomped his foot on the ground. He hit the ground so hard, a large crack opened up. Rumpelstiltskin fell into it and was never seen again.